Pearlington Gets Natural Gas

A project by United Gas Corp. enabled residents of Pearlington and the surrounding area to receive natural gas service for the first time this week.

"Turning on" ceremonies were held this week with H. G. Dean and John Mills opening the valve at the city gate station.

Included among some 300 residential and commercial establishments that will receive natural gas for the first time will be residents in the Oak Harbor and Belle Isle Subdivisions.

John A. Mills, United Gas manager for the Mississippi Coast district, said, "Because of growth potential of Pearlington and vicinity, it is anticipated that within five years United will be serving 1,000 customers in the area."

He went on to predict a bright future for the general area because of its location near the National Aeronautics and Space Agency's Mississippi Test Operations Site in Hancock County.

Another contributing factor in the development of the area is a port and harbor program that is planned on the Pearl River. A favorable feasibility study has already been completed on the project.

Gas supply for the new service area will be furnished by United Gas Pipe Line Co. from the Ansley Field Lateral line. The line was purchased from the Tarpon Gas Corp. and consists of 16.6 miles of five and one half and six inch pipe.

"A dependable supply of natural gas is a big step in the development of the Pearlington area," said Mills, however it would have ther of the past weekend for both hunting and fishing. It was a little cold but enough to be comfortable, and mosquitoes gave us trouble in the early morning. Late afternoons but the fishing ducks and catching them. To those who know a smudge pot is an art with burning rags that put off smoke that can't stand. Be careful lighting the rags on boats, the bucket over board, put gasoline on the rags and the rags smolder there is damage of anything catching.

Of course there was a lot of other fishermen whom we didn't know, pulling them in. If you would like to have your name in this column, send the information to Dec Elliott, % of the Kancha Ketchum column in the Hancock County Eagle.

One of our best eating ducks are the blue and green winged teal. They are small but a pack of dynamite on the wing. A hard object to shoot. For eating they can't be beat.

Another duck in question when it comes to eating in the Merganser. Most hunters say they taste fishy. Right now when they come our way, they are not fishy. After being in the marshes a while, they will have a fishy taste. That taste can be eliminated by soaking them over night in vinegar. The same thing applies to most wild game, even deer meat.

Definition of a duck stamp: The Migratory Bird Hunting Stamp Act of 1934 (48 Stat. 451; 16 U.S.C. 718a), as amended, provides that no person who has attained the age of 16 years shall take any migratory waterfowl (brant, wild ducks, geese, and swans) unless at the time of such taking he has on his person an unexpired Federal migratory bird hunting stamp (commonly called Duck Stamp), validated by his signature written across the face of the stamp in ink. A person who has not reached his 16th birthday does not have to have a stamp.

It is just as important to have a duck stamp, or even more so, than a hunting license.

BIG RUN OF SALMON EVERY FOUR YEARS

SEATTLE — Sockeye salmon appear in unusually great numbers every four years and Pacific coast canneries make special preparations to handle and pack the anticipated "bumper" crop.

Before going fishing always check you tackle. A reel not working or a pole minus a couple of guides can turn a good day into a bad one. Most fishermen and hunters get a big kick out of checking their tackle, and hunting

Have thought of taking a tape recording set on a fishing or hunting trip. But as I know my buddies it probably could only be shown back to "Man Only."

What can the sportsman do about pollution? This question comes to me every time the subject of dirty water and fish kills is discussed. There are things you can do, and really help bring the situation to public attention. Recently, Cincinnati, Ohio, sportsman Norm Meyer carried a tubful of large dead fish into the office of the Cincinnati Enquirer. These were only a few of an estimated one million dead and dying fish in the nearby Great Miami River. The next day the story was on the front page. Thousands of citizens read about it with their morning coffee. State and federal authorities were fast to track down the pollution.

Pollution is a big and serious problem and it is everybody's problem. Last year, according to the U. S. Public Health Service, pollution killed 10 1/2 million fish. This is a tragic loss of a natural resource as well as a threat to public health.

Outdoorsmen should watch for evidences of pollution, and bring it to the attention of public officials. They should let elected officials know they are concerned. If we can't clean up our streams and lakes we will sacrifice our standard of living.

Take care of your hunting dogs! The hardest member of our family to find Christmas gifts ideas for is the dog. Duke already thinks he has everything. This is understandable for a dog whose master operates a dog supply business.

Several years ago we gave Duke a new rust-proof aluminum dog pan. The large size because he's a big eater. He's been eating from it (ravenously) ever since. So he doesn't need a dog dish this year. What about his grooming brush? Duke got one of those two years ago. It's still as good as new so that's out. Last year we gave him a new heavy-duty chain lead, so we can't get him one of those. And he already has a pair of nail clippers, a tie out stake and a set of leather hunting boots to protect his paws from briars and sandbars.

Among his other gift items received is a self-filling fresh water dish that keeps him from ever getting thirsty even on hot summer days. I've been looking through our catalog — and it's filled with items dogs need — but the trouble is, as I've said, Duke has everything. Maybe you know some dog who hasn't been so lucky at Christmas time. We'd be glad to send one of our catalogs to his owner. Address: Bill Boatman & Co., Bainbridge, Ohio.

According to Mrs. John Hohns-Treiter, Publicity Chairman at the Pass Christian Iles Golf Club, Mrs. John Griffin and Mrs. L. Kislting tied to win top honors in the low net tournament held last Tuesday.

Mrs. Guy Walsh and Mrs. Guy Bufkin tied for low putts with 28. Winners in the first round of the tournament: Mrs. Jo Gex and Mrs. Joan Glass defeated Mrs. J. Hohns-Treiter and Mrs. H. Monegue; Mrs. St. Barrentine, Mrs. L. Ward defeated Mrs. W. Russo, Mrs. R. Anderson; Mrs. H. DeVries, Mrs. G. Bufkin won by default.

If you go out, check on the weather. If conditions are unfavorable stay home, and you will be glad you did.

Fishing for speckles the past week up Jordan River has been excellent. Among those going out and catching their share were:

Al Mercier, of Waveland, who has been trolling a lot lately and catching them.

Raoul Feltard who most always catches them. He uses the phase, the big one got away.

Alden Mautray and Kenneth McCarthy Sunday caught about 80 speckles. Alden said some of them were of good size.

Nolan Ladner and son, Nickey got their share last Wednesday.

Pat Garcia and his buddy caught theirs. Thanks for the loan of a couple of baits Pat. They helped out a lot.

and a little money for August. He is one of the best navigators and knows just what to do at all times in case of emergency, and he knows the marshes like his back yard. Of course there are plenty others like August in these parts of the woods. Men on the water and on the boats are wonderful and are ready at all times to assist any boat in trouble. If you go out, check on the weather. If conditions are unfavorable stay home, and you will be glad you did.

Fishing for speckles the past week up Jordan River has been excellent. Among those going out and catching their share were:

Al Mercier, of Waveland, who has been trolling a lot lately and catching them.

Raoul Feltard who most always catches them. He uses the phase, the big one got away.

Alden Mautray and Kenneth McCarthy Sunday caught about 80 speckles. Alden said some of them were of good size.

Nolan Ladner and son, Nickey got their share last Wednesday.

Pat Garcia and his buddy caught theirs. Thanks for the loan of a couple of baits Pat. They helped out a lot.

Of course there was a lot of other fishermen whom we didn't know, pulling them in. If you would like to have your name in this column, send the information to Dec Elliott, % of the Kancha Ketchum column in the Hancock County Eagle.

One of our best eating ducks are the blue and green winged teal. They are small but a pack of dynamite on the wing. A hard object to shoot. For eating they can't be beat.

Another duck in question when it comes to eating in the Merganser. Most hunters say they taste fishy. Right now when they come our way, they are not fishy. After being in the marshes a while, they will have a fishy taste. That taste can be eliminated by soaking them over night in vinegar. The same thing applies to most wild game, even deer meat.

Definition of a duck stamp: The Migratory Bird Hunting Stamp Act of 1934 (48 Stat. 451; 16 U.S.C. 718a), as amended, provides that no person who has attained the age of 16 years shall take any migratory waterfowl (brant, wild ducks, geese, and swans) unless at the time of such taking he has on his person an unexpired Federal migratory bird hunting stamp (commonly called Duck Stamp), validated by his signature written across the face of the stamp in ink. A person who has not reached his 16th birthday does not have to have a stamp.

It is just as important to have a duck stamp, or even more so, than a hunting license.

SEATTLE — Sockeye salmon appear in unusually great numbers every four years and Pacific coast canneries make special preparations to handle and pack the anticipated "bumper" crop.

Before going fishing always check you tackle. A reel not working or a pole minus a couple of guides can turn a good day into a bad one. Most fishermen and hunters get a big kick out of checking their tackle, and hunting

It snowed yesterday and when it stopped, I walked along the creek in a world of frosty splendor. The woods were hushed in majestic stillness, and I tread softly. A joy screamed overhead, and bending trees shivered stealthily, with squeaking, ice-coated branches. The falls at the curve of the creek stood immobilized with hoarfrost and icicles, but bending near I heard soft and surely the murmur of the moving creek beneath the icebound surface.
It came to me, how like that creek, my faith has been. At times this faith has been covered by rimes of doubt and self-doubt. Often it has been embittered by anguish and despair. But always under that glacial exterior there coursed a stream of consciousness that knew no turning from God—and the things I had been taught from childhood.
How glad I am my parents took me to church and brought me up with such a sure knowledge of God's love that it sustained me even when I tried to turn from His ways.

THE CHURCH FOR ALL
ALL FOR THE CHURCH
The Church is the greatest factor on earth for the building of character and good citizenship. It is a storehouse of spiritual values. Without a strong Church, neither democracy nor civilization can survive. There are four sound reasons why every person should attend services regularly and support the Church. They are: (1) For his own sake. (2) For his children's sake. (3) For the sake of his community and nation. (4) For the sake of the Church itself, which needs his moral and material support. Then go to church regularly and read your Bible daily.

NASA News..

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. — A ground test version of the Saturn V launch vehicle booster (S-IC stage) was static fired for its full flight duration of about 2½ minutes today at the NASA-Marshall Space Flight Center here.

The stage, designed by MSFC and the Boeing Co., generated its full thrust of 7.5 million pounds, equivalent, at maximum flight velocity, to about 160 million horsepower.

Today's firing was the second conducted by the Boeing Co., MSFC's prime contractor for the S-IC. All early firings were conducted by the MSFC Test Laboratory, which directed today's test.

Ground tests such as today's, in which more than 1,000 measurements of booster and test stand performance are recorded, help pave the way for the first flight of the Saturn V, planned for 1967. Today's firing was the 13th since the S-IC static firing program started here last April.

HUNTSVILLE, Ala. — The National Aeronautics and Space Administration's Marshall Space Flight Center announced today that 48 additional J-2 rocket engines will be purchased from Rocketdyne Division of North American Aviation, Inc., Canoga Park, Calif., under an amendment which converts the engine production contract to a cost plus incentive award fee agreement.

When Julius Caesar invaded Britain in 54 B. C. he found iron bars being used for currency as well as gold and copper. The iron bars were in the rough shape of a sword.

SAFE DRIVER PLANS

New York — In most states, the Insurance Information Institute reports, motorists with clean driving records for a specified period of time are given substantial discounts in the basic premiums for liability and collision insurance.

spare parts and operational simulators.

A total of 103 J-2 engines are now on order for the Saturn IB and Saturn V launch vehicle program.

The J-2 engine production contract is among a number of NASA's major flight hardware production contracts which are to be converted from cost plus fixed fee agreements to cost plus incentive award fee agreements. Under an incentive award fee agreement, the contractor may receive a higher fee for meeting performance and delivery schedules at low cost or if performance is poor and costs are high the fee may be reduced.

The 200,000 pound thrust J-2 engine will serve as the propulsion system in the upper stages of the of the manned space flight program Saturn launch vehicle. The engine uses liquid hydrogen and liquid oxygen for propellants. Five J-2 engines are clustered to produce 1,000,000 pounds thrust for the S-II, the second stage of the Saturn V. A single J-2 powers the S-IVB stage of both the Saturn IB and Saturn V. Saturn IB will

SCHOOL ATTENDANCE LAW ASKED

JACKSON, Miss. — Mississippi Supt. of Education Jack Tubb urges passage of a compulsory school attendance law to shave the soaring number of dropouts in the state.

Tubb, in an address to Mississippians for Public Education, said he was alarmed by the state dropout problem. He said last year the state had 22,866 student dropouts. Mississippi abolished its school attendance laws at a time when laws were being knocked off the books in efforts to thwart school desegregation.

Tubb said, "These students do not have sufficient training to maintain desirable standards of living. The unemployment rate of dropouts is known to be 17 per cent higher than the high school graduates."

The veteran education leader said many of the cases of dropouts could be prevented by making it mandatory to attend school.

It is my belief, Tubb said, that a well written, properly enforced law on school attendance, would save many of the prospective dropouts of the future.

Commander Roger M. Boh, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Boh Sr., recently relieved Commander W. J. Donnelly as commanding officer of VF-154's "Black Knights" in change of command ceremonies on Miramar's parade grounds.

The new squadron commander takes over from former duty as VF-154 executive officer, an assignment he has held since December 1964.

FORESTRY NOTES

Thrift utilization of timber harvest is a key factor in diversified operations of modern lumber companies.

In years gone by, timber was harvested and the best was utilized. Edgings, slabs and other residue were destroyed. With the demand for more and more forest products, our lumber companies had to meet the needs by increasing their output.

Modern sawmills and other such mills are using up-to-date equipment to retain and use their waste materials. Debarking of sawlogs prior to lumber manufacture permits use of slabs, edgings and other residue for pulp chips which are supplied to paper mills. Nearly 4 million cords of pulp chips were derived in this manner last year from the leftovers of pine lumbering alone. This figure represented 20% of the region's total material for pulpwood production.

The use of forest products are increasing each day. If we are to meet this increasing demand for forest products, we need to practice better forest management. Every available acre that is not producing a cash crop now should be put into production. According to Area Forester Arthur Verdel of Hancock County, many acres in the county are not producing to their full potential.

The Mississippi Forestry Commission is willing and able to assist you with your forest management problems. For advice or assistance, call HO-74711 or 255-7152 in Hancock County.

Each year through the Hancock County Welfare Department, eight to ten people in this county are given help by this organization, Mrs. Frankiewicz concluded.

WELFARE DEPARTMENT MAKES APPEAL FOR OLD JEWELRY, ETC.

The Hancock County Welfare Department is appealing to residents in the area for old eye glasses and old jewelry, gold, silver or costume.

Articles collected will be forwarded to New Eyes for the Needy, Inc., founded by Mrs. Arthur Terry, Short Hills, N. J., in 1932.

The organization supplies funds for purchasing glasses for needy persons, these funds according to Mrs. Frances Frankiewicz, Welfare Agent, are raised from the sale of old glasses and old jewelry to a metal refinery and the organization is supported entirely in this way.

In the past three years Mississippi has received 300 pairs of new glasses, which amounts to approximately $7,500 according to Mrs. Frankiewicz.

Mississippi began this project in 1960 when the state received 30 pairs, and New Eyes for the Needy has constantly increased the State credit card allotment.

New Eyes for the Needy, Inc., has been working worldwide for 30 years to improve vision of the needy. It has been helpful to almost a quarter million people, but has never solicited one penny, Mrs. Frankiewicz added.

Each year through the Hancock County Welfare Department, eight to ten people in this county are given help by this organization, Mrs. Frankiewicz concluded.
